LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS RELIGIOUS AUTHOR.

The large auditorium of the First Baptist church was filled Sunday evening when Dr. E. L. Peil, of Richmond, Va., one of America's greatest Bible students and author of many religious works, spoke on "The Misunderstood Master." His lecture was a contrast of the material with the spiritual. He spoke with great power and his lecture will be long remembered by those who were fortunate enough to hear him.

MR. CHAS. B. DAVIS SEEKS RE-ELECTION TO COUNCIL

Chairman of Internal Improvement Committee Would Return to Council From the Fifth Ward.

Mr. Charles B. Davis, senior member of City Council from the Fifth ward, today announces himself as a candidate for re-election. Mr. Davis has represented his ward in the city's legislative and fiscal body for the past several terms and has been a most efficient officer.

He is looked upon as probably the most active member of council. He has always been an official of decided opinions on every important question and although in many instances he has fought matters before council single-handed, there has been no hiding of his position and his colleagues and the public have always known exactly where he stood on any matter.

During the present administration Mr. Davis has been chairman of the Internal Improvement Committee, the second most important committee of council. Under his supervision the system of city sewerage has begun and in the first installment, he and his co-laborers have saved the city a considerable sum. He is held in high esteem by the voters of his ward as an aggressive city official and will make a strong race.

MAYSVILLE DRAWS FIRST BLOOD IN THE CHAMPION SERIES

Locals Defeat Winchester in First Game of Series and Second Game Closes in Tie—Too Much Scrapping.

Maysville drew first blood in the little championship series when she defeated the Hustlers Saturday, mainly through the effective pitching of Donald who let the visitors have but three hits and one while the locals were getting eight hits and four runs. Never was a pitcher in so complete control of the game as Donald in Saturday's.

Maysville played more aggressive ball, hitting when runs counted, while the Hustlers showed up well in the field. Their infield is one hard to beat and the gardeners are not slow. Blakey in left furnished the sensation of the day by a one-handed stab of Kresser's drive.

Sunday's game was too miserable for comment being filled with lots of hitting, many costly bobbles and far too many arguments between managers and umpires when the entire crowd would rush on the playing field and delay the game from ten to fifteen minutes. The game was called in the ninth after one big squabble over ground rules had racked the nerves of all the fans. Nothing has more disgusted the fans than the manner in which the games in the past have been handled by umpires. Since the sport has been put on a commercial basis with professional players it is up to both teams to agree on professional umpires who are disinterested in the game.

GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS.

A shrewd business man remarked the other day that wisdom clearly dictates that a business revival in this country depends upon getting prices down to a point which will stimulate buying, and that present stagnation is largely due to the fact that the public has unalterably made up its mind to see the present buyer's strike through and win its point.

It is the policy of the most intelligent merchants sufficiently demonstrated in their current advertisements, to emphasize the reductions which they are making as compared with prices of the same period last year. Instead of pointing to style and quality they are featuring the lower prices at which goods are being offered. In other words, they have recognized the real crux of the situation and have comprehended the psychology of the man who looks in the store windows.

These men may have to take some losses, but they are willing to do that in order that business may be revived, expecting, and with good reason, to gain by it in the end. It follows, of course, that when labor is convinced that living costs have actually been brought down to a substantially lower level, men who now threaten to strike against reductions will be ready to see the wage scale lowered, giving fresh impetus to trade and increasing production.

This theory has been amply tested by men of great business sagacity, and the fact that it is being more widely accepted all the time is the most encouraging factor in the present circumstances.

THE COUNTRY DOCTOR.

Those who have read Whittier's "Snowbound" remember the attractive picture of the country doctor on his rounds, faithful at the call of duty day and night, and by his sympathetic readiness to serve endearing himself to the whole community.

Dr. George Vincent, president of the Rockefeller Foundation, in an article in the Forum deplors the reluctance of young doctors to practice in the country. They fear the loss of contact with their colleagues, with technical facilities, with sources of professional information necessary to the up-to-date physician. The countryside, he says, must compete with the city to bring the doctors back to rural practice by developing hospitals, laboratories and public health organizations.

If the country seems a restricted sphere to the boundless ambition of a young man newly graduated in medicine, he should bear in mind that the emolument of his practice in money is not the be-all and the end-all in his calling. There are country doctors today, general practitioners, who would not change places with any urban specialist, because of the personal satisfaction they have found in winning year after year and selfless year the regard, and even the strong affection, of the whole of a rural neighborhood. All the rewards and pleasures of life are not to be found amid the hustle and bustle of the great White Way.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

WHAT IS SO INSCRUTABLE AS LIFE?

Speaking of a man who has just died—one Walter N. Lipe—friends, relatives and neighbors told of his happy family life.

As a general manager of a great packing concern, Lipe turned everything into gold for his company and made a million for himself.

"He resigned recently," said the president of the packing institution, "to become vice president of the great American Sugar Refining Company. We were very, very sorry to lose him."

Lipe died the day before he was to take possession of his new office. The president of sugar refining company said: "He was a great business man and a wonderful manager of men. We are greatly grieved and disappointed."

And this man committed suicide—hanged himself!
Why?

What is so inscrutable as life?

DON'T KICK; BE A NATIONAL BANK.

There is a very useful law in the United States by which a national bank can issue currency money upon depositing the equivalent in United States bonds in the United States treasury. The bank continues to own the bonds and draw the regular interest on them while they are still in Uncle Sam's custody. The money issued by the bank reaches all of us in $5, $10 and $20 notes, and we pass them everywhere at 100 cents on the dollar.

That's what United States bonds will do for a national bank.

Liberty bonds are also United States government bonds for which the people paid Uncle Sam 100 cents on the dollar. But although owners of Liberty bonds do not ask for the favor of issuing money on such bonds, when the time comes that they want to sell them, interest and all, and get much needed cash for them, they have to accept considerably less than 100-cents on the dollar.

In other words, the national bank eats its cake and still has it. The ordinary fellow, on the other hand, only get a part of his cake to eat, and when eaten it is all gone for good.

It's a fine life if you don't weaken!

Sir Hall Caine declares that the Russian famine was rooted in the Czar's call to arms when 19,000,000 able farmers gave up the plow for the rifle. That may be true, but it blossomed in the terrible regime of Lenin when all the products of the soil were commandeered and used to feed a huge army bent on imposing socialism on the world by the sword.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

New York. — This is getting to be a serious-minded world. The missionary spirit seems engrossing. One New York newspaper has a column headed with the not of the crusader, "Wrongs to be Righted." Undoubtedly there do exist a great many such big problems in this world; and evidently none will be overlooked. For the other day, at the head of the column was a letter from an aggrieved girl from Nebraska who protested valiantly in a letter addressed to that department of wrongs that one serious wrong to be righted was the way in which New York youths displayed affection on the buses of our city. "I am embarrassed," she declared, "at having to ride on the top of busses where young men sit with their arms around their girls. This should be stopped, in order that the rest of us may enjoy them without this embarrassment." And on below that, were letters on the tragedies of war, of unemployment, and other less important matters.

—NY—
I met the most cheerful woman the other day that I have come across in a long time. So very buoyant was she that I inquired into her frame of mind. This was its wellspring; she had just arrived triumphant from some distant upland. And because she was in a hurry and carried a heavy parcel she took a taxi, in spite of the fact that she had only one dollar and twenty cents in her purse. It was a battered old machine but it ticked dimes efficiently; so efficiently that she worried about the walk she saw ahead of her when all twelve of hers had been ticked up. Suddenly there was a jolt. A rear wheel had come off. The driver was deeply apologetic and worried about her bumped shoulder; but she smiled her forgiveness and jumped into another cab—her $1.20 still intact. The rest was easy; only six blocks remained to be covered; and she landed with all of 80 cents. "I shall spend the rest of my life looking for battered taxis," she concluded.

—NY—
Maybe it was the vote that did it all. Certainly it is true that women are more and more being led away from the grievance that after all it's a man's world and his are all the comforts therein. The latest thing to assuage them is the changed attitude of the hotels. Who of us doesn't remember the day when dreary, exaggerated boarding houses known as "women's hotels" were supposed to be our stopping places when alone? That day is past. The newest hotel to be in the course of building here in New York has set aside whole floors for our special accommodation. And these floors of the hotel Commonwealth are big ones. Moreover, women will help to own it. Already there are over a thousand women's names on the long list of co-operative owners, and the initiators of the plan are finding that there is a very special lure to them in the fact that 20 per cent. rebates are to be allowed share-holders on all purchases made through the hotel's shopping bureau, as well as on hotel bills. Men owners of the hotel can let the women of their families share their privileges; but the position of the new feminity is better satisfied by the ownership of her own membership card.

—NY—
One cannot love all the world equally. That has been pointed out before by various writers. One may be kindness itself and still have partialities. Mrs. John Hughes, of 229 East Twenty-fifth street for instance! Mrs. Hughes was characterized by her husband as "the kindest woman in the world" the other day in police court. "Every time Mary sees a stray cat, she brings it into the apartment and takes care of it," he said. "No one could be kinder. The house is filled with cats." Nevertheless, the court sentenced her to six months on Blackwell's Island for child-beating.

—NY—
The most rollicking and at the same time, most intelligent, revue in town is undoubtedly that at Irving Berlin's new theater, The "Music Box." There is an impressive group of principals in the case, William Collier, Sam Bernard, Florence Moore, Joseph Santley, Ivy Sawyer, Wilda Bennett, and half a dozen dancers; and they all have scenes which enable them to be at their clearest and funniest. The staging is gorgeously done.

—NY—
The direful news is being whispered about that the "social climbers" are to come pretty nearly monopolizing the golden horseshoe at the Metropolitan Opera House this winter. The "old guard" is reported to have lost interest in all things fashionable even the opera, to the degree of subtlety, their leased boxes to lesser lights who were going to pay, not only for the opera itself but for the privilege of sitting in Mrs. High-Tone's box. It's another serious matter to be taken up with the Board of Conditions.

When you push too far beyond what is expected of you, you lose your head. That is the age-old lesson taught by the big palm tree up at the New York Botanical Garden. A lovely glass dome was erected over the place where the palm tree grew; but it wasn't expected to grow so violently. It put out a new leaf and crash! went the dome. Another one was put on, his time a few feet higher. The season went on. So did the palm tree. The other day it put out more new leaves. And crash! went the brand new glass covering. That was too much. They have executed the palm.

SMALLPOX BY POPULAR VOTE.
In the United States, says J. N. Forre special expert, and Dr. J. J. Leake, of the United States Public Health Service, in a recent Public Health Report, smallpox depends on the popular vote. Study of the smallpox statistics in twenty states for the last six years and of the vaccination laws in the same states indicates that the people have generally obeyed the vaccination laws that they have made. Where popular sentiment has sustained a strong centralized compulsory vaccination act smallpox is today negligible; where local authorities have been given discretionary powers as to enforcement the rate has tended to rise; and where the laws have lacked compulsory features or there have been no laws the rate is high.

In the twenty states considered, four states show a combined smallpox curve that has been at a consistently low level for the six years. Seven Southern States and Six Central states show curves that are much higher and are very similar to each other, though that of the Central state is about twice as high as that of the Southern states. The three Pacific Coast states show a most extraordinary increase in the disease, the smallpox curve having soared from one nearly as low as that of the Eastern states in 1915 to one eight times as high in 1920.

Within each of these four geograph-local groups, the better the status of vaccination in the law, the lower is the smallpox rate. The states where vaccination of school children is generally required have little smallpox, averaging 3 cases a year for a community of a hundred thousand in habitants; the states where there is no such requirement have 113 cases per year for each hundred thousand persons, a rate high enough to make it probable that one person out of every thirty would at some time have an attack of smallpox.

RYE COVER CROP PROTESTS TOBACCO FIELD FERTILITY.
Nearly one-half million acres of Kentucky tobacco land, the richest in the state, will be depleted of their fertility during the coming winter unless rye or some other crop is sown as soon as the tobacco crop is removed to protect the soil during the winter from erosion and leaching, crops specialists at the College of Agriculture say. Rye sown at the rate of one bushel an acre as soon as the tobacco is removed, makes a good protection for the soil while a still better cover crop may be obtained by adding 20 pounds of vetch seed to each bushel of rye and sowing this mixture at the rate of one bushel and 20 pounds an acre. The combination will make not only a soil saver but also a green manure to play under next April for soil improvement. The tobacco field in general is prepared and tilled as carefully as the garden, the specialists say, with the result that little grass or weeds have an opportunity of growing on them. In the fall of the year these fields are mellowed clean and as soon as the tobacco is removed are smooth surfaces where fall and winter rains start rivulets that late grow into gullies which remove the fertile surface. Losses of this kind are among the heaviest one suffered by farmers of the state, according to the specialists.

DRUNKEN MEN BREAK UP PIE SUPPER FOR CHURCH.

Elizabethtown. — A pie supper at the Black Jack school house was broken up by rowdies under the influence of moonshine whisky. After several fights had taken place, one of the belligerents threw a bottle of whisky against the wall of the building inside, and a piece of the glass struck Stanley Karr on the forehead, cutting a deep gash. In the panic which followed, a number leaped from the windows and there was a hasty exodus of all in attendance.

Sunday was an ideal fall day and was fully taken advantage of by the Sunday school enthusiasts. Rally day with the promotion programs was observed in several of the schools. This is the beginning of the Sunday school year with the modern graded system of lessons. The fine attendance at most of the schools shows the great interest in the work. This should only be the beginning. With the encouragement of past successes Sunday schools should now press forward for the best year of all.

The State Sunday School convention at Newport the coming week will hold the attention of all interested in this great work. A number of our local workers will leave Tuesday for the convention among whom are, Mrs. J. H. Wells, county secretary, Miss Mary L. Wilson, member of the state committee, Miss Ella Wallace, vice president of the Mason county association, and Rev. W. S. Peters, pastor of Third Street M. E. church and teacher of one of the large men's Bible classes of the city. The convention proper begins Tuesday evening in Grace M. E. church.

Of these more than 15,000 men are employed by the three principal lines in the state, The Louisville and Nashville Railroad, the Southern Railway and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad.

CHECK WORKER PROVES TO BE PAROLED PRISONER

Young Man Who Passed Forged Check On Geo. Frank & Co., Proves to Be Morton McKee.

It developed Monday that the young man arrested Friday for forgery when he passed a bad check on George H. Frank & Company, is not Charles Day, farm hand of the Mayslick neighborhood, but Morton McKee, of Fleming county, now on parole from the State Penitentiary where he has been serving a term for forgery.

McKee was paroled from Frankfort on April 29th and has been in Fleming county since. Once before, it developed, he raised a check on Mr. T. F. Grannis, the man whose name he forged to the instrument Friday. McKee was before Judge Whitaker Monday afternoon, waived an examination and was held to the grand jury on bail of $500, which he was unable to give. It is likely that he will be returned to the penitentiary for violation of his parole.

Chief of Police Ort was asked Monday afternoon by Mr. Wm. Cooper, of Aberdeen, County Treasurer of Brown county, to be on the lookout for a Ford automobile stolen at Ripley Sunday night.
